The conference “Modern Electrochemical Methods” (MEM) is one of the international conferences with old traditions, attended by many electrochemists from various countries of the world. This year, the MEM conference was held for the 40th time at a traditional place – in Jetřichovice near Děcin in the Czech Republic.

ISE sponsorship:

- The conference was started by introductory speeches by Prof. T. Navrátil and by Assoc. Prof. K. Schwarzová, members of the Scientific Committee
- ISE regional representative for Czech Republic Assoc. Prof. Fojta mentioned in his short lecture ISE, its importance, activities, events (co)organized by ISE, membership in this society, ISE Annual meeting(s), Topical meeting(s), etc. organized in 2022-25.

Proceedings:

The Proceedings include full papers (not the abstracts). The book follows international editorial conventions. The books of proceedings are numbered according to the volume number. The literature citation rules are identical with those valid for the journal "Chemické Listy" (ISSN 0009-2770, indexed in Web of Science). The length of the articles amounts to 3-5 pages (size A4, single-spaced). The titles, abstracts, and keywords are written in English (Czech translation is available in some cases). The texts of the contributions are written in English, Czech, or Slovak languages. The Books of Proceedings are published in printed form (and are available on request). Further, they have been available on the www pages since the year 2009 (free access). This year, the Proceedings are available at the following www address:

https://www.bestservis.eu/images/file/sb_mem_21/Sbornik_metody21.pdf. Each contribution was accepted for publication after review by members of the scientific committee (the revisions included the formal aspects, the overall quality of the research presented, the completeness of the cited references, etc.).
